Defendant Also Charged With Larceny as Bailees Liabilties $100,000

John N. Eklund, prominent contractor and builder in Colorado Springs for the last 15 years, was arrested yesterday in San Diego, Cal., on charges of embezzlement and larceny as bailee, referred by Marie Kristensen of this city in direct information filed by the district attorney's office here. The complainant alleges that Eklund embezzled $7,000 from her and defaulted by larceny as bailee in the amount of $500. Sheriff Burdick left last night for San Diego to bring Eklund back for trial.

Eklund disappeared from Colorado Springs shortly after he went into bankruptcy last October with liabilities amounting to more than $100,000. Many working people, mostly women, whom it is alleged, he induced to invest their savings in his building propositions, are among his creditors, who accuse him of questionable financial dealings with them.

For more than 35 years, Marie Kristensen says, she toiled as a domestic to save a competency against old age. By dint of hard work and close economy she accumulated almost $8,000. For many years she was housemaid in the home of the late W. B. Clark on Boulder. After the death of Mr. Clark, the girl sought a means of investing her savings to bring her some return. She met Eklund and he induced her to invest in his building propositions, by lending her money.

JUDGE HALLETT IS DEAD AT AGE OF 78

Lived in Colorado Springs for Several Years — Well Known Jurist

DENVER, April 25.—Moses Hallett, former chief justice of the territorial supreme court of Colorado and United States district judge for the Colorado district, died here today at the age of 78. General senility is given as the cause of death.

Judge Hallett transacted business as usual yesterday and seemed in good health except for the feebleness due to his advanced age. He was found dead in his bed at 6 o'clock this morning. Having come to Colorado from Chicago in 1870, Moses Hallett was appointed chief justice of the territorial supreme court by President Johnson in 1880. In 1887 he was appointed by President Grant to the position of United States district judge. He continued on the bench until seven years ago, when he was retired, having reached the age limit.

Judge Hallett married Miss Katherine Felt in 1882. She died nine years ago. One son, Lucius F. Hallett, survives. Judge Hallett was considered one of the wealthy men of Denver. He was a high degree Mason and a member of the University club.

In the early '70s Judge Moses Hallett, at that time on the district bench here, presided at the trial of the famous cases against the Colorado Springs Land company, arising over the liquor clause in the company's deeds. His decisions, favoring the company's restricting clause, were upheld in the supreme court of the United States. Judge Hallett lived in Colorado Springs for several years after the founding of the city. He was named in the will of the late W. S. Stratton as one of the trustees of the Myron Stratton Home corporation, but declined to qualify because of his age.

Conditions Before Surrender
Were Most Appalling, Says
Report

LONDON, April 25.—(Saturday)—The ambassadorial conference met again yesterday. Premier Asquith and Viscount Morley, lord president of the council, were present and discussed the Scutari problem.

It is understood the conference adheres to its decision that Montenegro must evacuate Scutari, but is indisposed to acquiesce in Austria's demand that the powers undertake to compel evacuation by arms. No demand has been formally sent to the Cettinje government, and probably nothing will be done in this respect until after the next meeting of the conference Monday when Sir Edward Grey, the British foreign minister, who has been absent from London this week, again will preside over the deliberations.

The Montenegrin crown prince, Danilo, made his formal entry into Scutari yesterday. General Vukitch has been appointed military governor of the city and M. Plamenatz, former charge d'affaires at Constantinople, civil governor. King Nicholas will make his triumphal entry into Scutari today and it is reported he will proclaim his intention to move his court there.

MISS ALICE HOLMES NEW SEC. Y. W. C. A.

Succeeds Miss McCulloch
Takes Up Duties July 1.
Highly Recommended

The directors of the local Young Women's Christian association have chosen Miss Alice C. Holmes of Brockton, Mass., as general secretary of the organization, and she will come to Colorado Springs soon and take up her duties July 1. She succeeds Miss Rhoads, whose resignation took effect the first of this month.

During May, Miss Holmes' field secretary of the organization for the district, the two are helping in a building fund campaign for $125,000 which is in progress there.

Miss Holmes recommended Miss Holmes to the directors of the local organization after meeting her at the biennial conference of the Y. W. C. A. at Richmond this month. Miss Holmes is a graduate of Wellesley, finishing there in 1906. She trained for Y. W. C. A. work at the Northeastern training center in New York, and was for two years with the Detroit Young Women's Christian association, one of the best in the country. During the last year she has been doing industrial work at Bridgeport, Conn.

The directors and other members of the organization are looking forward with pleasure to Miss Holmes' coming as general secretary of the Y. W. C. A., as she is believed to have all the qualifications that will be needed for her position with the erection of new buildings and the broader field of endeavor being taken up by the association. Wellesley students now in this region, who were acquainted with Miss Holmes while at that institution, praise her highly.

JAMES BRYCE
Retiring Ambassador

AMBASSADOR BRYCE PAYS A HIGH TRIBUTE TO AMERICANS ON DEPARTURE FOR ENGLAND

Says Rural Population Is Strong Element in Guiding Destinies of Nation; Lays Down Duties of Six-Year Stay in United States
With Pleasant Memories

NEW YORK, April 25.—James Bryce said farewell to the American people tonight at a dinner given here in his honor by the Pilgrims Society of the United States. After six years as British ambassador to this country, Mr. Bryce will sail for home from San Francisco, May 2, via the Orient. Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, his successor, will arrive in New York early next week.

Mr. Bryce, who sat at the guest table with Ambassador Bryce, who, in a speech, emphasized the relation of friendship existing between his country and the United States. The ambassador sat at the right of Joseph H. Choate, former ambassador to Great Britain, who is president of the Pilgrims society and acted as toastmaster. At Mr. Choate's left was Walter Hines Page, present American ambassador to England.

Mr. Bryce did not touch directly upon any issue now pending between the American and British governments. His statement, however, was regarded as significant. With good will and with a conviction that one of every nation's highest assets is that sense of national honor which will make it live up to its international obligations, all questions between nations can be adjusted, and I am sure that any questions between your country and mine will be adjusted in that way.

Refers to Treaties.
Mentioning that more than a dozen important treaties between his government and the United States had been concluded in the last six years, Mr. Bryce said he had come to admire not only the brilliant gifts of former Secretary Root, but his fairness of mind and his genuine love of peace. He would show no less earnest wish to work for accord and good will, and Mr. Bryce, indeed, has given evidence of this.

"My mission," he said, "has been not merely to represent my sovereign and government for diplomatic purposes, but also to bear a message of friendship from the British to the American people."

That friendship there is not and there ought not to be anything exclusive. I have never suggested that you and we should make any sort of alliance against the rest of the world. We may usefully cooperate for many purposes, because our aims and our spirits are substantially the same. But what we desire is that the ties of friendship which bind the United States and Great Britain to one another should be extended to embrace other countries also.

Pays Tribute to Farmers.
These have been six eventful years for the United States, as well as for Europe. Mr. Bryce continued. "Here, too, you have your difficulties. I see that they make some among you anxious for the future. In watching with keenest interest, I find for you two kinds of grounds of hope. One is the fact that you have standing behind you the support of the large capital and organized labor on the one hand and a third body of genuine and fair-minded citizens, especially among your rural population, persons who own the land, till the soil and the houses they live in. Such an element in a nation gives it strength and stability and it is an element larger than anywhere else in the world. The fact is that the standard of civic duty among all your citizens steadily is rising."

These are all of us, when we are forming higher ideals, to be more disinterested than we were before with the contrast between ideal and practice. But this is no reason for despondency. No country has shown greater powers of overcoming difficulties and escaping from dangers than America."

Mr. Choate began his speech with an expression of his pleasure in Mr. Bryce's departure.

There have been six eventful years for the United States, as well as for Europe. Mr. Bryce continued. "Here, too, you have your difficulties. I see that they make some among you anxious for the future. In watching with keenest interest, I find for you two kinds of grounds of hope. BRYAN'S VISIT TO COAST SHORT

Legislation Against Japanese
Would Affect Chinese in Same Manner

TRIP IS WITHOUT PRECEDENT

Secretary Gets Invitations to Deliver Addresses While In California

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Secretary Bryan is not expected to spend more than a week at Sacramento conferring with Governor Johnson and the state legislature over the proposed anti-Japanese law. From semi-official sources today it was said that Mr. Bryan expected to present the views of President Wilson and do all that was possible to remove friction between the United States and Japan over that particular legislation in time to be back in Washington May 7.

In official circles today it was suggested that the energy with which Japan had protested against the enactment of the pending anti-land-holding legislation in California had served to obscure the fact that the many Chinese would be affected by such laws, though not in proportion to the Japanese residents.

Deep Concern Manifested

The Chinese legation here, though nothing the facts has refrained from lodging any protest at the state department while awaiting instructions from Peking, as well as the issue of the negotiations between American and Japan regarding the question of alien land ownership. It is apparent, however, that the situation is viewed with deep concern, developing as it has at the very moment when the United States government is about to encourage Chinese people by extending recognition to the recent democracy.

Specific treaty guarantees, it was pointed out, probably would give the Japanese property owners a decided advantage over the Chinese in protecting their rights in the event of discriminatory legislation. The number of Chinese in California is said to be very much smaller than commonly supposed. According to the report of the immigration commission, owing to the drop in immigration, the ratio of many of the Chinese to their own country and the migration of many others in California to the west has been depressed materially in the last decade. Even in 1900 there were only 60,000 Chinese in the whole of continental United States, about 40,000 of whom reside in California.

Length of Visit Indefinite

SACRAMENTO, April 25.—"I shall go direct to Sacramento and will return to Washington as soon as I possibly can," said Secretary of State Bryan tonight, as he boarded his train. "I cannot forecast how long my absence may be, but I hope it will be short. I ought to be in Washington."

Mr. Bryan nodded his head with emphasis and added: "I had to leave Washington just now. I wouldn't have done so if it had not been necessary."

PIERCE SAYS HE WAS VICTIMIZED

FORMER SEN. BAILEY'S
NAME BROUGHT IN

History of Promotion of Tennessee Corporation Is Narrated

ST. LOUIS, April 25.—Henry Clay Pierce, chairman of the board of directors of the Tennessee Valley corporation, met today the charge that he had converted to his own use 15,000 shares in the Nashville Terminal company, which had been placed in the National Bank of Commerce of St. Louis as security for a loan with the counter-statement that he had been the victim of misplaced confidence to the extent of $1,500,000.

The statement of Pierce was made during the taking of depositions in a suit filed by the National Bank of Commerce to recover the 15,000 shares from Pierce, or their money equivalent to $1,500,000.

Mr. Pierce told of the formation of the syndicate to promote the Tennessee Central railway, a syndicate to which Pierce, William H. Thompson, president of the Bank of Commerce, and J. S. Van Blarcom, vice president and later president, were the principal subscribers. Both Thompson and Van Blarcom are dead.

Pierce's Losses

Pierce detailed his losses through misplaced confidence as follows: Securities loaned by Mr. Pierce to Van Blarcom, on which the latter made loans, which Pierce had to pay, $700,000.

Loan from the Mississippi Valley Trust company of St. Louis, made by Van Blarcom, but to which Pierce's name was signed as guarantor by Pierce's son-in-law, Eben Richards, $600,000. This loan, Pierce testified, he had to pay.

Pierce's name signed by his son-in-law, without Pierce's knowledge, as a guarantee to pay bonds of the Tennessee Central railroad to the extent of $1,600,000.

Advances by Pierce to pay the expenses of the railroad after the syndicate collapsed, $400,000. These advances resulted from the signing of Pierce's name to a guarantee to buy the bonds.

Bailey's Name Brought In

Mr. Pierce further testified that he understood that the 15,000 Nashville Terminal shares, which the National Bank of Commerce now seeks to recover, were turned over to former Senator Joseph W. Bailey of Texas, as assignee of the Tennessee Construction company, after the loan for which it had been pledged as security was paid. The bank now claims that the securities were taken out of the bank by Van Blarcom. The Tennessee Construction company was the concern that promoted the Tennessee Central railway and the Nashville Terminal railway.

Senator Bailey sold over $400,000 of the property of the construction company, said Mr. Pierce, and it was my understanding that from the sale of these properties the loan of the National Bank of Commerce was paid, and that the stock then went to Bailey as assignee for the construction company, whose stock later was pledged to the Standard Trust company, of New York by Senator Bailey, and remained there for three years. It finally was delivered to Eben Richards, on my order after the trust

TARIFF "SHOW" STAGED IN HOUSE

Keating Says Sugar Trust Controls Every Factory
in Country

HUMOR MIXED WITH POLITICS

Palmer, Democrat, Champions
Underwood Bill Defends
the "Dumping Clause"

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Frivolous and serious treatment was accorded the tariff question today in the house debate. Representative J. Hampton Moore, Republican of Pennsylvania, contributing a novelty by conducting a tariff primary class for the education and amusement of his colleagues, and Representative A. Mitchell Palmer, chairman of the Democratic caucus, delivering the principal argument of the day in behalf of the Underwood bill.

Representative Keating, Democrat of California, who declared he was elected upon a free sugar platform, aroused representatives from beet sugar states with the declaration that every beet factory in the United States was controlled by the American Sugar Refining company, either by stock or by selling agreement. He declared there was a selling agreement by which the company fixed the price to the consumer, and who challenged by Representative Kelly of Michigan. Mr. Keating declared he could prove it by business conditions and facts relating to the beet sugar industry of his own state.

Puts House in Uproar

Mr. Moore's innovation put the house into an uproar. He presented himself in the guise of a pupil figuring questions in a "tariff primer" put out to him by the reading clerk of the house. The climax came when Representative Keating, raising his hand while Mr. Moore was reciting his tariff lesson, demanded recognition.

"For what purpose does the gentleman rise?" asked Representative Garrett of Tennessee, the presiding officer, who at this moment assumed the role of principal of the school.

"Please, teacher," Mr. Keating grinningly responded, "may I go out?"

The principal's answer was drowned in the laughter and applause, while Mr. Garrett pounded his gavel to subdue his unruly pupils.

Palmer Champions Bill

Representative Palmer championed the Underwood bill as a measure which would surely bring relief to the people of the nation if it received the united support of the Democratic party, and he predicted that it undoubtedly would survive the opposition of the "Republican remnant and the Progressive embryo." He lauded the Democratic leader, Mr. Underwood, whose name the new tariff law will bear, declaring that when the law became effective, he would take his place among the immortals of the republic.

Mr. Palmer laid emphasis upon the Minister of Finance Returns to Peking to Sign Big Five-Power Loan

PEKING, April 25.—The minister of finance, who had been persuaded to return to Peking to sign the five-power loan of $125,000,000, reached Peking tonight on a special train from Tientsin, which he had left a few days ago for asylum in the foreign concessions.

It is believed that President Yuan Shi Kai, who is heavily guarded behind the walls of the forbidden city, is having difficulty in retaining the members of his cabinet, owing to their fears that their lives are endangered. The Kwo-ming "Fang" (Faction) political party is fearful that the loan may complete Yuan Shi Kai's dictatorship.

The dispute succeeded today in electing a president and vice president and the house of representatives promises to do likewise tomorrow. If the house succeeds in doing so it is said that Edward T. Williams, the American chargé d'affaires, will present to Yuan Shi Kai next Monday the formal recognition of the republic by the United States government.

Although civil war between Yuan Shi Kai and the Kwo-ming Tang party seems imminent, there is no other representative head of the republic than Yuan Shi Kai. The Kwo-ming Tang desire to remove Yuan Shi Kai but they cannot elect any presidential candidate or even limit the president's powers because for many months Yuan Shi Kai has been carefully substituting his own officers for hostile officers in the army. Also, it is known he is capable of repeating the military pressure he put on the previous parliamentary bodies.

English Suffragettes Charge American Women With Treason

Serious Rift Occurs in Women's Social and Political Union and Its American Members Defendant Will Not Appear at "Court Martial"

LONDON, April 25.—A rift between the Women's Social and Political union, the organization of militant suffragettes, and its American members was indicated today by the summing up of a "court martial" composed of "General" Mrs. Flora Drummond, acting as judge advocate, and the "cabinet" of the union sitting as judges to try Mrs. Mary Ford of New York on a charge of alleged treason to the society.

The military features of the court were all in correct form with the exception that there was no means of compelling the attendance of the accused who failed to appear.

Mrs. Ford said that she knew nothing of the charge and did not expect to appear before the court.

The charges against Mrs. Ford, as prepared by "General" Drummond, were three, as follows:

The Charges

First—Failing to inform the union as to the exact hour of the release of Miss Zeile Emerson of Jackson, Mich., which fact was within Mrs. Ford's knowledge and being valuable to the organization she was in duty bound to reveal.

Second—The allegation that Mrs. Ford had told American press representatives in London that the union planned the kidnapping of Miss Emerson from her mother.

Third—That Mrs. Ford had contravened a strict rule of the union by announcing publicly that she had committed specific acts of militancy.

In court today it was explained that this rule was very important, and the

Denounced as Traitor

In reciting these facts, which she claimed were proved by a sheet of clippings from American papers which she waved aloft, "General" Drummond denounced the American woman as a traitor.

When informed of the charges, Mrs. Ford declares she knew nothing of them and believed herself to be on the most friendly terms with the organization, which she had been assisting by voluntary work in its press bureau.

Mrs. Ford ridiculed the second charge, stating that she had not informed anyone of such a plot which she herself was unaware existed.

Today's affair is considered as important all the "cabinet" of the Women's Social and Political union of which she was present.

"General" Drummond declares that the militant organization is full of spies, no less than six of its members, one of whom is an American woman, being agents of Scotland Yard.

Chamber of Commerce directors, at a special meeting yesterday morning, adopted a vigorous protest against the state income tax act, which is now before the legislature and is now before Governor Ammons for his signature or veto. A copy of the resolutions was sent to Governor Ammons, and at the request of the Chamber of Commerce, Mayor Avery also sent a letter of protest to the governor on behalf of himself and other citizens. U. S. Yacht Dolphin Is Taken for Target in Dense Fog. Get Good Soaking

NEW YORK, April 25.—(Saturday)—Eleven members of the senate naval committee on naval affairs, had a narrow escape from being blown to pieces while witnessing naval target practice at Judith Sound, an inlet south of Washington, late yesterday, according to a Washington dispatch to the Times this morning. The monitor Talisman, shooting while a thick haze hung over the water, mistook for the target the United States yacht Dolphin, on board which were most of the members of the official party, and an 800-pound shell fired from a 12-inch gun passed directly over the stern of the Dolphin as close as to cut one of the ropes attached to the yacht's rigging, the dispatch says. The shell exploded just before it struck the water, and while the committee members were thoroughly frightened, they secured nothing more serious than a drenching from the water stirred up by the projectile.

The members of the committee on the Dolphin were Senators Poinsett, of Washington, and Bryan of Florida, and Representatives Padgett of Tennessee, Foster of Alabama, Buchanan of Illinois, Hobson of Ohio, Greig of Texas, Baughman of Ohio, Butler of Pennsylvania and Witherspoon of Mississippi.

The target, the old ram Kathadin, was about 14,000 yards from the Talisman and the Dolphin a mile away from the Kathadin.

Girl Members on Student Board of College Proposed

Woman's night will be officially recognized at Colorado college by allowing the college girls to have four members on the student commission, the governing body of the students at the institution. If a revised constitution for the student body, which has been suggested by Charles A. Carson, in person, is adopted at an election to be held at the college, Friday, May 16, under the proposed constitution the student athletic board will be increased from 14 to 18, a year in order to defray general expenses of the association, and in particular, to insure the building of High school day from year to year.

Besides the new constitution, two other propositions will come up for a vote at the same election. One of these is intended to provide for an honor system in the examinations at the college, and the other to formulate the student athletic board of the association, and the handling of notice boards in Palmer hall.

Under the present system the student commission is composed entirely of the men of the college and the women are recognized only in an advisory board and in their own government in the residence halls and in social activities. Under the new arrangement they would receive the offices of vice president, and secretary of the association, and one girl elected by the women's student government association and one girl elected by the members of the board.

The increase of the student athletic fee was approved by a straw vote taken at the chapel exercises several weeks ago. The honor system has been brought up once or twice before at the college, the last time being two years ago, but has been rejected

NEW ARMY AND MILITIA ORDERS ARE ANNOUNCED

WASHINGTON, April 25.—General Albert L. Mills, in charge of the militia division of the army, today issued a circular order defining the relationship of the regular army officers to the militia while engaged in instructing the state troops. He made it clear that while the federal government was disposed to allow considerable latitude in the system of military instruction in the various states, yet in order to obtain the assistance of the government he insisted the system must be such as to afford proper instruction and to maintain the militia as a sufficient war unit.

Therefore, while the army officers' services were at the disposal of the militia the officers also were under the orders of the war department and have certain definite instructions which they must carry out. The circular continues that as it may be taken for granted the army officers are educated soldiers, their advice on matters of instruction should be followed. If they are not working in harmony with the state authorities they will be promptly relieved on request by the governor. General Mills adds, but if the system of instruction adopted by the state is not regarded as superior to the organized militia for the field, and the advice of the army officers is disregarded they will be relieved from duty by the department itself of its own accord.

The telegram to President Wilson read as follows:

RESCUE TWO MINERS AFTER IMPRISONMENT OF OVER SIXTY HOURS

PITTSBURG, April 25.—(Saturday) Exhausted and almost unconscious, Charles Crawl and Philip Legler, miners, were rescued alive from the Cincinnati mine of the Monongahela River Coal and Coke company at Finleyville shortly after midnight this morning. They had been held prisoners in the underground workings since the disastrous explosion in the mine at noon Wednesday in which at least 36 men were killed.

After the expert helmet men and mine inspectors had left the mine late last night, J. McVickers and Clyde Gibson, members of the coal company's rescue crew, entered the mine to search for bodies. When they reached a point two and a half miles from the entrance, they heard a faint cry. An investigation disclosed the two miners alive in what is known as room 10, on entry 20.

The rescuers carried and dragged the miners to the pit mouth. Crawl, when he reached the surface, cried: "It seems as if I had been in there a week."

Survivor Marianna Disaster. Crawl and Legler were taken to a hospital at Monongahela. Crawl is a survivor of the Marianna mine disaster of November 28, 1908, when 154 lives were lost. In that explosion Crawl lost his right eye.

At the hospital he told of his experience. "I entered the mine at 6:20 Wednesday morning," Legler and I were eating lunch in the room where we were found when, shortly after 12:30 Wednesday afternoon we heard a dull explosion which seemed to be far away. I began to get nervous when I did not hear the other miners at work and I went to investigate. I found dead miners lying all around and then I knew how severe the explosion had been. Remembering my former experience I told Legler to follow me and we crawled into the old workings in an effort to find a way out. I think we had been crawling 32 hours in that time we had only a slice of bread a piece and we quenched our thirst with sulphur water from the mine floor. We crawled and crawled and couldn't find any way out. I gave up hope of ever getting out alive several times, but as long as my strength lasted I pushed on. Legler wanted to lie down and die but I urged him on. In room 22, entry 18 we found an old man and his son. They were alive but could not move. We tried to carry them but their weight was too great and we were exhausted. When we left the old man and his son my mind seemed to wander but I held to Legler's hand and in some way we got back to where we had started from after the explosion."

The hospitals also were in a horrible condition. Unburied and semiconscious corpses were lying about in the streets and in the houses many people were found dead or dying of exhaustion.

In the last few days of the siege whenever Essad Pasha appeared in public he was followed by groups of desperate, famished natives, demanding "bread or surrender."

The Montenegrins alleviated the immediate distress of the stricken population but their own supplies were scanty. King Nicholas of Montenegro has dispatched three boats to Scutari laden with provisions and medical and sanitary supplies.

Crown Prince Danilo, commander of the Montenegrin force, telegraphed from Scutari that the Turkish garrison, which was allowed to surrender out of the fortress with full honors of war, consisted of 26,000 nizams, or soldiers of the active war; 5,000 bashibazouks, or irregular volunteers, and 455 officers, including a number of Austrians.

ANTWERP, Belgium, April 25.—A youth, 18 years old, and a 19-year-old girl were the principal characters in a love tragedy enacted here today. Every bone in the bodies of the boy and his companion was broken. As they hurtled through the air, several men and women who witnessed the sight, fainted.

According to the police, the leap from the church tower was in accordance with a premeditated double suicide pact.

"THE MIKADO" RECEIVES ENTHUSIASTIC RECEPTION

By H. H. F.

The enchanting, tuneful melodies of "The Mikado," attractively staged and brilliantly sung, received an enthusiastic appreciation at the Opera house last night by an audience of society people and music lovers that comfortably filled the theater. In presenting this gem of popular light opera, the Colorado Springs Musical club may well take pride in the finished, enjoyable production of "The Mikado," which was given under its auspices.

It is usually true that the average amateur effort along lines musical and theatrical is a rather dull affair. Such was not the means true of "The Mikado." There was a finish and ability in the staging that will compare favorably with professional productions. A smoothness and freedom from delays in the performance and singing on the part of the chorus that is really noteworthy in that it brought out voices of unusual quality, drilled to well-nigh perfection in chorus singing.

From a musical standpoint I am told that the music of "The Mikado" is really worth while. From the viewpoint of the average listener, it is bright and tuneful to a degree, distinctly better than almost all of the light operas and musical comedies of the present day. To be added to these advantages are the gorgeous costumes of Japan and a group of principals who, without exception, have the advantage of good singing voices, well controlled and letter perfect in their parts. The orchestra, under the masterful direction of Prof. Albert C. Pearson, had much to do with the success of the production. Indeed, it is only justice to give a generous share of the praise to which "The Mikado" is rightfully entitled to Professor Pearson and to Mrs. J. Dawson Hawkins, pianist, for their untiring interest in the opera.

The libretto of "The Mikado" is, according to present-day standards, rather poor. Fred Broeze, as Ko-Ko, injected so much into the lines that there was never a dull moment. It is usually rather hard for a professional comedian to keep his audience in good humor throughout an entire performance. Mr. Broeze was droll and original in everything he said or did, and two of his songs, "I've Got Them on My Last" and "The Flowers That Bloom in the Spring" were well worked up and deserving of all the laughs they received. Cecil Rodgers, as Nanki-Poo, has a honor voice that one wants to hear more of, and ability as a tenor on his own account. Nelson, his voice is pleasing, and, if stronger, would be even more enjoyable. Pish-Tush was given a capable production by Nelson Brett, Yum-Yum, Miss Bessie Osborne, and Peep-Bo, Miss Margaret Ballard, shared by Katharine, Mrs. E. M. Lathrop, the honors of the ladies. Miss Paldy's singing was splendid, and she wore some stunning kimonos that were almost as pretty as herself, and as she naively observes in the course of the opera, "I am the most beautiful girl in the world." Miss Tley Sisco had a solo dance that was full of charm and grace, and in these days, when interpretive dancing is one of the most difficult and most desired accomplishments, it would not be unlikely that professional offers may come her way.

I do not think that in attempting to criticize an affair put on by home talent one should be too critical. But given the advantage of plenty of comedy and action that are the part of modern musical plays, the whole while music of "The Mikado," sung as it was last night, the verdict would be that the professional production would come off second best in the comparison.

There will be a popular-price matinee this afternoon, and the final performance tonight. If you miss seeing "The Mikado," you will deny yourself two and one-half hours of musical enjoyment.

made because its provisions are considered so drastic as to discourage the investment of capital in Colorado, keep wealthy people from coming to this state to make their homes, and hinder the general development of the state. Mayor Avery had a letter of the Denver chamber of commerce as well as his own, read at the meeting of the council yesterday morning, and explained that he was not asking the council's approval of his stand nor pretending to speak on its authority. The mayor said in his letter that the effect of the state income tax would be to render the coming issue of $500,000 worth of water refunding bonds practically unobtainable.

The state income tax act, which is house bill No. 77, provides for the taxing of all incomes over $5,000; for the taxing, in addition to general taxes, of the income from property in this state owned by nonresidents; for the taxing of stocks and bonds, for the inclusion of income from the rental value of homes occupied by owners as well as the income of other members of the family, and many other provisions.

The resolutions adopted yesterday by the directors of the Chamber of Commerce are as follows:

Protest of Chamber of Commerce.

Whereas, There is now pending before the governor house bill No. 77, known as the income tax bill, only awaiting the signature of the governor to become a law; and

Whereas, We are advised that a federal income tax is now a settled fact and will shortly become a law; and

Whereas, We are advised that in the opinion of the state tax commission the legislature has recently passed other laws making ample provision for all necessary expenditures by the state; and

Whereas, The approval of the proposed law by our government means that the residents of Colorado will have to pay a double income tax; and

Whereas, The members of the board of directors of the Colorado Springs chamber of commerce have read with approval the resolutions adopted by the board of directors of the Denver chamber of commerce and believe that the appeal of the Denver chamber of commerce to the governor to withhold his executive approval of the bill to veto the Colorado income tax bill, should have the favorable consideration of the governor; and

Whereas, In the opinion of the board of directors of the Colorado Springs chamber of commerce the board of directors of the Denver chamber of commerce has no legislative power and therefore is not an appropriate body to make such a recommendation; and

Resolved, That the board of directors of the Colorado Springs chamber of commerce joins the board of directors of the Denver chamber of commerce and other commercial bodies over the state in an appeal to the governor to withhold his executive approval of this bill and veto it.

That in the opinion of the board of directors of the Colorado Springs chamber of commerce, the proposed law will:

1. Affect the small home owner as well as the large landholder.
2. That it will tend to make Colorado unpopular with many classes of people seeking homes among us.
3. That it will embarrass all commercial bodies in the state in their work for the general welfare of all our citizens.

CONDEMNED MAN ASKS OFFICER TO MAKE THE EXECUTION "PAINLESS"

SOCORRO, N. M., April 25.—Irvin Fraser and Francisco Granada were hanged at 4:52 this morning in the Socorro county jail.

Just at sunrise the men were led from the court-house, where they had been confined under heavy guard since 3 o'clock this morning, across a gallery to the jail, where a scaffold had been erected. As they stood on the traps, Fraser asked the officers to make the execution as nearly painless as possible.

Unusual precautions were taken to prevent any attempt to rescue the men and the time of the execution was kept secret. These precautions were due to the fact that the officers had discovered that Fraser while confined at the penitentiary at Santa Fe awaiting execution, sent a letter to friends, urging them to hold up the train at La Jora, a small town 30 miles south of Albuquerque and take him from the officers as they were bringing him here for execution.

Fearing that the friends of the condemned man might try to carry out this request, the officers brought the two prisoners here in a special car under a guard of 18 officers, all heavily armed. The train, which is scheduled to stop at La Jora, dashed through the village at full speed, while officers stood on the platform with rifles in their hands.

Irvin Fraser was tried and convicted for the murder of Deputy Sheriff Thomas Hall and Al Smithers of Luna county in a fight November 7, 1911, between the officers and Fraser, John Green and Reynold Green, whom the officers were pursuing.

Francisco Granada shot and killed William S. Clark, manager of the Mogollon Mercantile company store at Mogollon, February 19, 1912, in an attempted holdup of the store.

They were quite obviously on their honeymoon.

It was a restaurant, and the two young people were eating breakfast one morning recently.

The bride wore a dress of red wool with a hat that was small and black and becoming. The dress had a voke and cuffs of white all over lace over white satin, and on her hands were gloves.

The girl was so young that, in the nature of the case, she had not worn gloves until she was tired of them. But there was something about this particular pair of shiny black kids that suggested that she was quite unaccustomed to the luxury. And she was eating pumpkin pie. (Of course, while 10 o'clock is early for luncheon, it is late for breakfast in some communities, and the pie may have been perfectly justifiable.)

Did you ever go to a reception where they served salad, and have to eat it with a fork held in your immaculate kid-gloved hands? You know it is not an easy feat to perform. But it would seem an easier thing than to eat a piece of pumpkin pie for breakfast with black gloves on, and the little bird did just that. It was quite a struggle, but she succeeded in eating the pie without tearing the gloves. She was visibly relieved when the strain was over.

The husband helped her to peel her coat, and she tenderly assisted with his own. He took up his hat—and his attitude showed he spared no expense and started toward the desk. She lingered, to take the cover from the sugar bowl and take out two lumps of sugar. Then, very contentedly, she went to join him out on the street.

And probably it is given to few of us to be as happy as they were as they strolled up Tejon street

Elected President.

At the regular meeting of the Pueblo Presbytery, which has been in session in Trinidad this week, Mrs. William C. Robinson of this city was elected president of the Women's Missionary society, and Mrs. McCord was selected to the office of recording secretary, which she has held for a number of years. Among those who attended the presbytery from this city were Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. McCord, the Rev. J. J. Ewart, the Rev. F. H. Liles, Jr., and Mrs. Montfort, Mrs. L. G. Pyffe and Mr. C. B. Lauterman.

German Club Tonight.

At Cogswell theater, in Bemis hall, the fourth annual play will be given by the members of the German club, and the entertainment planned has been under preparation for some time, and will be given in an interesting and artistic fashion. Prof. George M. Howe and Miss Marie Salma have had charge of the direction of the performance, and the play, "The Sommerkast," will be given. The members of the cast will be:

Woman's Literary Club.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Literary club will be held this afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Holden, 1209 North Cascade avenue. The program will consist of a paper by Mrs. Abel Kemple on "The Foul Problem in Ireland," and a talk on "Mormonism" by Mrs. William C. Robinson.

Matinee Today for Children.

There will be a number of theater parties made up for the matinee performance of the "Mikado" this afternoon at the Grand. The opera is always keenly enjoyed by children, and the parents of Colorado Springs were glad to avail themselves of the opportunity to take them to see the oriental costumes and to hear the Sullivan music.

Among those who have taken boxes and have invited children to be their guests are Mrs. Chester Alan Arthur, Miss Innes, Mrs. J. Dawson Hawkins, Major and Mrs. C. T. Lowndes, Mrs. James Ferguson Burns and Mrs. E. E. Tallaferr.

There has been a brisk demand for tickets for the matinee performance, and the audience will be an inspiring one, since so many will be children.

Moral for Parents.

There is a moral for parents in the story taken from a St. Paul paper: "A tiny red shoe on a baby's first doll caused the death today of Robert, the six-months-old child of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Weeks. Poisonous dye from the little shoe had been swallowed by the infant."

"Mr. Weeks took the doll home to the baby on Saturday morning. The child gurgled with delight, and babylike, put its tongue to the brilliantly colored shoe. Mr. and Mrs. Weeks noticed that the dye came off, but the child showed no ill effects at the time."

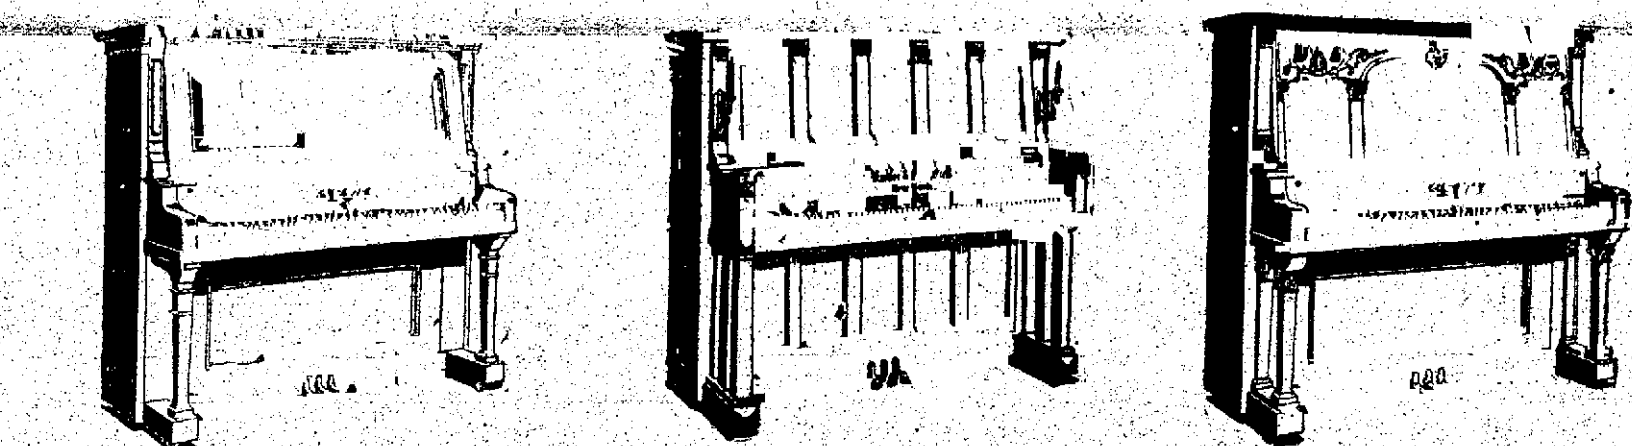

"Today, while the mother was singing to the child, his head suddenly dropped forward, and a moment later the baby was dead. A physician said the dye had affected the heart."

Sale Postponed.

The sale planned for this afternoon by some of the young women who are interested in charity has been postponed until Saturday afternoon. There was to have been the sale this afternoon and a dance in the evening, all at the San Luis school. The dance will be given as planned, the proceeds to go toward the same fund as those of the sale. The hostesses have planned an evening of pleasure for their friends.

BRYAN'S VISIT

These are important days at the capital. Mr. Bryan decided to make an announcement in connection with the coming conference with Governor Johnson and the California legislature. Mr. Bryan said, in answer to a question as far as his memory goes, is without precedent. We may create precedents in our conference, but it would not do to speak of them in advance. That the secretary will have a hosttable welcome in Sacramento, was shown today by five invitations he received here by telegram to address public bodies in San Francisco and Sacramento. The chamber of commerce of San Francisco, the Commercial club, the Commonwealth club and the California development board, all of San Francisco, telegraphed asking for addresses, and the chamber of commerce of Sacramento offered the use of a theater and asked for a public speech.

Declines Invitations.

Mr. Bryan said that he had been obliged to decline the invitations from San Francisco, as there was no likelihood that he would be able to speak there. There was more chance that he would speak in Sacramento, but he could not make an engagement.

I replied to the gentlemen in Sacramento that I had been disappointed by the president to confer with the governor and legislature of their state," Mr. Bryan said. "And under those circumstances, while I appreciated their invitation, I did not deem it proper for me to make any speaking engagements."

Mr. Bryan added that as representative of the president he had never doubted a cordial welcome from California. The secretary was accompanied only by his secretary, Robert Rose.

While in this city Mr. Bryan had brief conferences with Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, William L. O'Connell, Governor Dunne's representative, Mayor Harrison and several other Democratic leaders.

Tokio Satisfied.

TOKIO, April 25.—Satisfaction is generally expressed here over the decision of President Wilson to send Secretary of State Bryan to Sacramento, Cal., to consult with the legislature there on the question of the proposed alien land ownership legislation. The majority of the Japanese newspapers adopt a more tranquil tone today, but the widely circulated Osaka Mainichi, an independent newspaper, in a warlike spirit points to the Japanese fleet as "no toy" and says that if forced to action by discriminatory legislation it is capable of vindicating the national honor.

IS ACCUSED OF EMBEZZLING

ing money upon various properties in which he held equities. The girl trusted him implicitly. He procured money from her for various loans. It is said, and in return gave her deeds and documents that it is alleged were fraudulent and had never been recorded. These documents, which the girl believed were security for the money she advanced Eklund, she placed in a safety deposit box.

Says Deeds Missing.

When she went to California on a trip last year she left the key to the safety deposit box with Eklund, authorizing him to collect upon the securities, which she believed were legal and valid. When she returned, she alleges, all the papers were missing and Eklund was gone. Throughout the city, it is said, are a number of other working women who have had similar experiences and losses through Eklund, though not on so large a scale. Several estates are tied up, it is declared, as a result of his operations, and it was stated last night that the total operations in which his patrons are losers involve several thousands of dollars.

Eklund operated as a builder and contractor and as a developer of real estate. His plan was to acquire realty holdings, erect residences and interest working people in purchase on the installment plan. His total assets consist, it is said, in equity in property that is virtually unsaleable at the present time. A number of mortgages sold on time payments are said to have been encumbered as he built them, and many of the occupants, it is understood, have suffered financially as a result of their purchases.

Two or three years ago, Eklund received considerable publicity when he disappeared from his home in this city. A search failed to reveal his whereabouts, but after a few days he returned stating that he had gone to a ranch on business and was unable to communicate with his family here by telephone, when he found he could not come back as soon as he had expected.

ASK FEDERAL AID IN VICE INVESTIGATION

Relation of Wages and Tariff Called to Attention of President Wilson

EL PASO, Tex., April 25.—Federal soldiers driven from Mexico by the insurgents of Sonora arrived here tonight to be transported to Juarez, Mexico, again to enter the field against the constitutionalists of Chihuahua. But, although the movement of 217 men and 17 officers was permitted from Naco, Ariz., such orders from the war department prevented the crossing of the Mexicans to Juarez. A group of constitutionalists from Naco, Ariz., and held the disarmed soldiers, who had arrived on a special train expecting to proceed directly over the line.

Constitutionalist agents at Nogales, Ariz., and other points on the border had protested to the governors of Texas, New Mexico and Arizona, and their senators at Washington, asserting that the federal refugees were being moved to Juarez, which they said was threatened by attack. The same objection had been raised against the attempt of the Huerta government to send the troops to Guaymas, now being besieged. Arms taken from the refugees soldiers were turned over to the Mexican consul at Naco, Ariz., to be shipped in bond to Juarez. Gen. Pedro Ojeda, the federal commander, only driven over the line after a fortnight's fighting at Naco, Sonora, did not accompany his men here. With 18 officers he remained to proceed to Los Angeles, thence to San Diego, Cal., where he will sail for Guaymas. The soldiers arriving here tonight reported that their chief wept as he said good-by.

"I desire to see peace and prosperity for my country," he told them. "One farmer is worth 10 soldiers to his country. But we soldiers now must protect the farmers."

Bailey Has Little to Say.

CHICAGO, April 25.—Former Senator Bailey of Texas tonight declined to throw any light on the transactions involving the 15,000 shares of Nashville Terminal stock for which H. C. Pierce, of the Waters-Pierce Oil company, is being sued in St. Louis.

"The Tennessee Construction company is my client and I can't talk about its affairs," he said. "I will say, however, that the terminal stock was not pledged as collateral. It was deposited in the bank under contract and removed when the contract was fulfilled."

Mr. Bailey stopped in Chicago tonight on his way to Galena, Ill., where he will speak tomorrow at the U. S. Grant memorial exercises.

"To meet the just complaint of the American manufacturer that he cannot know what competition he must meet as long as the foreigner can sell his surplus product here below his home market price," said Mr. Palmer, "we have inserted the 'dumping clause.' It will close the mouth of the American manufacturer against criticism of the law, while, otherwise, he would find a sympathetic audience in a people determined upon fair play."

novelty and for the first time in the history of congress so far as known, a speech on the tariff was delivered by the speaker's rostrum and the delivery of replies from the floor.

Mr. Moore's speech was a "tariff primer," following the lines of Plato's republic inform. He sent to the desk a set of queries which the clerk propounded to him, and Mr. Moore, in his answers, ran the gamut of tariff legislation and tariff thought. "When was the first tariff act passed?" asked the clerk.

"The first act passed was a tariff act," replied Mr. Moore. "It was approved by President Washington, July 4, 1789, and was regarded as a declaration of commercial independence."

"What do you mean by the Underwood bill?" quizzed the clerk.

"The bill introduced by Chairman Underwood, the exponent in the house of theories of President Wilson," was the reply.

And so the questions and answers ran on.

Mr. Moore charged the Democrats with continually misrepresenting the tariff question, declared the present Payne tariff law revised the tariff downward and when the clerk asked why people complained if they enjoyed such wonderful progress, Mr. Moore replied:

"They listened to ambitious politicians, agitators without conscience, journalistic organs with axes to grind, magazines, seeking pap, essayists who found it more convenient to write fiction than to work, theoretical college professors, nonproducers generally, and a few sincere reformers usually well informed and frequently misled."

CONVENIENTLY PLACED

From the New York Evening Post.

A considerable number of American and some European connected with the diplomatic service are aware that there are streets in Washington named for the letters of the alphabet. People who live in the capital frequently write "I street," "Eye street," "T street," "U street," and "E street," "Ea street," "It was left for a car conductor imported from London to ring another chain on those abused street names. A woman passenger—a stranger in the city—had asked the conductor to put her on at Lutheran church—which happens to be on I street.

"Here street," called the conductor on reaching I street.

"Kay," he shouted at the next corner and then, at the next:

"Hell—all out for the church."

A Case in Kind

"I wrote to you about six months ago for your kind advice in regard to my case," writes Mrs. Lizzie White. "At times I was hardly able to do my feet. I believe I had every pain and ache a woman could have. Had a very bad case of uterine disease. Ovaries were very much diseased and my back was very weak. I suffered a great deal with nervous headaches, in fact I suffered all over. I followed your directions as closely as I could, and was well pleased with the results. I have taken your 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery' for about three months and can now say that my health was never better. I. W. W. WON'T WORK ON ROCK PILE; GET BREAD AND WATER

When 14 members of the Industrial Workers of the World refused yesterday to work on the city rock pile after being fined $20 each for vagrancy in police court, they tore up their meal ticket in the city jail, and instead of being served with the regulation fare, have been reduced to bread and water. They will be kept on this diet, says Chief of Police Burns, until they call off their strike against work and are willing to earn their keep instead of being a burden on the taxpayers.

In imposing the sentence upon the "workers," Police Judge Starratt informed them that they were to work out the fine at the rate of $2 a day by breaking rock for the city streets. When they were ordered to go to work at 1 o'clock, the spokesman for the delegation announced that they had decided to strike. The bread and water diet was then ordered. Several of the men weakened last night and half way admitted that they were willing to forego their principles for a square meal.

This delegation, which arrived here Thursday afternoon, is said to be a part of an outfit of 260 on route here from the coast, with Denver as their ultimate destination. Three of the 17 workers arrested Thursday, who are under age, were released by Magistrate Starratt.

Eastern Colorado Working Hard on New Lincoln Road

Eastern Colorado is beginning active work to develop the Lincoln highway, both Kit Carson and Lincoln counties having within the last week advised Secretary A. W. Henderson of the Lincoln Highway association that plans are rapidly being formulated for constructive work.

A communication from W. E. Weller, county clerk of Kit Carson county, yesterday advised that this county is beginning work, the county commissioners at a meeting April 21, having instructed the county engineer to make a survey of the road for the 60 miles across that county. As soon as this is completed, the actual work will begin. Although the commissioners of Kit Carson county are handicapped for lack of funds, they are strong good roads advocates and they are working out plans to secure the maximum results from the state funds and from other sources. It is the plan of the Kit Carson County Commercial association to have a "good roads day" upon which all able-bodied men of the county will be called upon to spend a day at work building roads. This work will be centered on the Lincoln highway, as it is the main state road in Kit Carson county. Plans are being made for a good roads rally day to be held at Flagler in the near future and local good roads enthusiasts have been invited to address the meeting.

The chairman of the board of commissioners, S. H. Yale of Stratton, has been named by the board as a director of the Lincoln Highway association. J. K. Roush of Burlington and Dr. H. T. Williams of Flagler are the other members of the board.

Lincoln county, too, is beginning to take an active interest in the work. The chairman of the board of commissioners, R. R. Lucore of Arriba, has been in correspondence with Leonard E. Curtis, highway commissioner of this district, and with the Lincoln Highway association with reference to plans for the development of the highway across Lincoln county. He states that at the next meeting of the board, May 1, definite consideration will be given the matter.

SPRINGS BOY WILL GO TO ANNAPOLIS

Ned Marbourg, son of Dr. and Mrs. Edgar M. Marbourg, arrived here yesterday for a visit with his parents. He has been taking the examinations for entrance into the Naval academy at Annapolis, and telegrams received by him upon his arrival announce that he has passed the examinations. It is understood that he will report at Annapolis in May.

CITY COUNCIL APPROVES FIREMEN'S RELIEF RULES

With the exception of a few changes, the city council yesterday approved the rules and regulations adopted by the firemen's relief fund board. The annual election of members is provided for on the last Sunday of each December, and the rules provide that a fireman must be off at least five days on account of illness or injury before he is eligible for benefits.

The construction of a number of sidewalks was ordered by the adoption of a resolution. A resolution also was adopted authorizing the establishment of grades for curbs and guttering on the north side of Buena Ventura street, between Cascade and Wood avenues.

Further hearing of the J. W. Euster street soliciting matter was continued until next Wednesday morning on account of the illness of Attorney Lombard.

TO OPEN HIGH SCHOOL BIDS NEXT TUESDAY NOON

The second set of bids on the construction of the new buildings at the High school, about 15 in all, will be received at noon next Tuesday by the board of education. The board recently rejected all the bids it submitted, decided on certain minor changes in the construction material and in the plans for some of the grounds, and called on the contractors to revise their estimates in conformity with these changes.

NEW D. & R. G. FOLDER FOR EASTERN AGENTS

Copies of a spring and summer train schedule folder, issued by the Denver & Rio Grande railroad for its agents in the east, have been received in this city and are being shown about because of one feature they contain. This is a page devoted to pictures showing the evolution of power on the road in the last 40 years. One picture is given of the "Montezuma," the first locomotive on the road, which was used for both passenger and freight service. It was put into use in July, 1871. Other pictures show the three types of locomotives in use in 1913, the "Pacific" for passenger service, the "Mikado" for freight service, and the "Mallet" for mountain service. The "Pacific" and the "Mikado" are more than two and a half times as long as the "Montezuma" was, and the "Mallet" nearly three and a half times as long.

SUP. COLE EXPLAINS REVISION OF COURSES

Superintendent of Schools Carlos A. Cole, in explanation of the revision of the courses of study, said yesterday that the work of revising the entire course has been under way since last September and will be completed by the opening of the next school year. Cole regards the present course of study as excellent, but says that any course has to be revised from time to time to meet changing modern conditions of thought in intellectual, industrial and political circles.

He issued the explanation in order to correct a misunderstanding among those directly interested in school work. He and Principal R. C. Hill of the High school went to Denver yesterday afternoon to attend the annual meeting and dinner of the Colorado Schoolmasters' club last night.

Blood Bath Knocks Rheumatism

Remarkable Effect of a Remedy That Actually Irrigates the Entire Blood Supply.

The Hardest Nut of All, Rheumatism, is Cracked by S. S. S.

It sounds queer to take a blood bath but that is precisely the effect of a most remarkable remedy known as S. S. S. It has the peculiar action of breaking through the intestines directly into the blood. In five minutes its influence is at work in every artery, vein and tiny capillary. Every morbid humor, every organ of the body, every remedy becomes in effect a filter to strain the blood of impurities. The stimulating properties of S. S. S. compel the skin, liver, bowels, bladder, to all work to the one end of casting out every irritating, every pain-inflicting atom of poison. The stimulating properties of S. S. S. compel the skin, liver, bowels, bladder, to all work to the one end of casting out every irritating, every pain-inflicting atom of poison.

And best of all, this remarkable remedy is welcome to the weakest stomach. If you have drugged yourself until your stomach is nearly paralyzed you will be astonished to find that S. S. S. gives no sensation but goes right to work to cleanse the blood with a pure vegetable infusion. It is taken naturally into your blood just as pure air is inhaled naturally into your lungs.

You can get S. S. S. at any drug store for $1.00 a bottle. It is a standard remedy, recognized everywhere as the greatest blood antidote ever discovered. If you are in a peculiar case and you desire expert advice, write to The Swift Specific Co., 137 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

Will Compile List of Resources Available for Development in Region

Plans to secure a comprehensive report of resources available for industrial development in this locality were under consideration at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce committee on trade and industries yesterday, and in cooperation with Prof. George E. Finlay and Prof. William Strickby of Colorado college, the committee expects to secure a great deal of useful data within the next few months.

Several propositions for the development of new industries in this locality were presented at yesterday's meeting and were referred to subcommittees for further investigation and report at a later meeting.

The committee also had under consideration plans for the wider development of local industries and will confer with manufacturers in Colorado Springs, Colorado City and Manitou at an early date with reference to these plans.

O. E. Hemenway is chairman of the committee, with the following assistants: L. J. Newsome, L. J. Pelta, Ray Lovell, A. Taylor Thompson, J. P. Shearer, O. W. Ward, and D. J. Finkelstein.

New Substation Named for Parcel Post; Check Made on Incoming Mail

Postmaster Strachan has designated Station No. 1 at the Morse pharmacy, 402 South El Paso street, as a station at which parcel post packages may be mailed. This makes four such stations on the east side, and one in the north end.

A check of the incoming parcel post packages, made at the local office for the six days ending Wednesday, showed that a total of 2,387 packages arrived in Colorado Springs during that time, according to a report on the tally made to the postoffice department at Washington by Postmaster Strachan. This is more business for the new department of the service than was expected at the first of the year, and several more men probably will be needed to handle the parcel post when the tourist season is in full swing. The six-day check was ordered for all the offices in the United States by the postoffice department. No check was made on the outgoing packages, which are few in number.

RACHEL HEARN WANTED TO COLLECT BEQUEST

A letter has been received at the local postoffice from a man in South Pasadena, Cal., asking for information as to the whereabouts of Rachel Hearn, who was, at the last information of the writer, unmarried. The writer explains that money or property has been bequeathed to Miss Hearn and that she will fall to get it if he cannot locate her by August 1. Her former home, he writes, was in Bowling Green, Mo.

The local postal officers remember that such a woman once received mail from the local office, but have been unable to trace her. They are anxious that anyone knowing of her communication with them at once. They think that her last name was spelled "Hearn," but believe it possible that it may have been spelled in some other way.

Ireland's population remained almost stationary in 1912.

TO ENCOURAGE RAISING OF BERRIES AND SMALL FRUITS IN THIS REGION

A campaign to attract the attention of residents and particularly the gardeners in Colorado Springs and vicinity to berries and small fruits and to secure a widespread planting of strawberry and raspberry plants, currant and gooseberry bushes, and plums, cherry and similar trees, will be started in the near future under the direction of County Agriculturalist Lauck and the agricultural committee of the Chamber of Commerce. Such an industry, developed to the extent that those who are urged to believe possible, would mean an annual revenue of several thousand dollars to the community.

That these berries and fruits can be grown successfully here is the conclusion reached after several investigations. Mr. Richardson, former president of the State Horticultural society, cooperating with the Chamber of Commerce, El Paso County Horticultural society and the county commissioners, carefully examined the possibilities of such farming in this locality last year, and found after a study of many local gardens that Colorado Springs is well adapted to these products.

Agriculturalist Lauck, who has had experience in such growing, has devoted some attention to this question since coming to this county, and will aid and advise, whenever possible, everybody interested in starting these gardens. The committee on agriculture of the Chamber of Commerce is composed of John Lennox, chairman; Dr. A. C. Magruder, O. H. Shoup, E. A. Swenson, A. J. Lawton, Irving Howbert, L. M. Hunt, B. A. Banta, W. R. Watertown and P. M. Green.

A BILL AGAINST LOBBYING

SENATOR KENYON of Iowa has introduced a bill for the regulation of lobbyists which ought to have a wholesome effect even if it is not passed, and it probably won't be. The bill does not prohibit lobbying but legalizes and regulates it. It forbids lobbying by former members of Congress and requires that others following this calling must register their names, the names of their clients, and file an itemized statement of expenses incurred in their work. The acceptance of contingent fees is forbidden under heavy penalty, and anyone who violates the proposed law is thereafter to be forbidden to lobby before Congress.

It seems that since the last election a good many of the "lame ducks" in Washington have settled down to earn a livelihood by presenting the claims of clients before Congress. Being former members, they are entitled to the privileges of the floor, and have ready access to the members at all times when the two Houses are in session. The Congressional lobby has always been a nuisance and an evil, and Senator Kenyon believes that a law is needed to put it under restraint.

The bill probably will not be passed although its author declares his intention to push it vigorously. But it may have a wholesome effect in curbing the activities of a set of hangers-on whose influence is almost uniformly bad.

THE FRANKING PRIVILEGE

MR. FITCHCOCK, former Postmaster General, in his efforts to wipe out the postal deficit frequently protested against the abuse of the franking privilege. Everybody knows that the free transportation of mail matter for the government departments and for Congress is expensive, but it is surprising to learn that during the last fiscal year the loss of revenue on this account amounted to more than twenty million dollars. In that time more than 300,000,000 pieces of mail, weighing about 61,000,000 pounds, were carried by the postal service free of charge under the franking of Congressmen and the various government departments.

If the franking privilege was confined to mail matter which is really necessary this loss would be greatly reduced. But under the "leave to print" privilege a Congressman can have any kind of a document or even a book, printed as a part of the Congressional Record and mailed at the Government's expense. During political campaigns this item alone assumes startling proportions.

Recently there was a case where a standard work on political economy was printed in full in the Record, which made it technically a free mail document and gave any Senator or Representative the right to have any number of it carried through the mails under his frank. A private organization advertised in the paper that it would mail two copies of this book under a congressional frank, for a given sum, and sold a great many in that way. An indictment is now pending against the head of the firm, but the Congressman could not be touched. Congressmen regularly frank typewriters through the mails, and there is even a story of an Illinois member who sent his family a long letter each week under his frank.

This abuse ought to be stopped because it is wrong. But an important additional reason is that the Postoffice Department can only avoid a deficit by resorting to measures which impair its efficiency. It cannot afford to waste twenty million dollars a year on the free transportation of campaign literature and other unnecessary matter.

TREE PLANTING IN THE MOUNTAINS

FIFTY or sixty years ago according to local history the entire Front Range was covered with a dense growth of forest with trees of a size now almost unknown hereabouts. But it was burned over in the early sixties and the forest has never regained its former dimensions in area or in the size and number of the trees.

To one who stands on a mountain top and views the vast sweep of thousands of acres on every side it seems an impossible task to accomplish anything worth while by planting. But the results already attained by the Forest Service through this method are surprising.

For several years the work has been going on in the Pike National Forest and the number of trees planted runs high into the hundreds of thousands. The seeds must be gathered and planted in a forest nursery where the saplings grow until they are two or four years old. Then they are transplanted on the mountain slopes. The work is tedious and costly, but it produces results, and if it is continued the time is not far distant when there will be a new growth of pine, fir and spruce throughout most of the adjacent mountain area.

Most of the criticisms of the Forest Service originate in ignorance of its work. There are people who suppose that the only desire of the conservationists is to set aside vast areas of mountain land, forbid anybody to enter them and then let the trees die of old age and rot on the ground. The truth is that the Forest policy is based on true conservation, which means developing natural resources in a way which will make them most useful to the people. This is why the Forest Service plants trees on burned-over areas, cuts and markets only the trees which have reached maturity, forbids overstocking the range with sheep or cattle, etc. If this wise policy had been intelligently applied forty years ago the public domain would be in vastly better condition than it is today.

DIGNITY OR LAZINESS?

FOR pure unadulterated nerve the tramps who are beating their way from various parts of the West to Denver under the high sounding name of "Industrial Workers of the World," are entitled to the prize. They differ in no essential from the ordinary variety of hoboes who travel the country by beating their way on freight trains, sleeping in jails, and dodging rock piles. But they believe that in numbers there is strength. They calmly take possession of a freight train, intimidate the crew and travel to their destination. When they are rounded up by the police they assume that the municipality owes them comfortable board and lodgings with no compensation in the form of work. When invited to the rockpile they politely decline to work and announce their intention to go on a "hunger strike" until they are more hospitably treated.

Well, they ought to be given full opportunity to indulge this whim to their hearts' desire. The fourteen tramps now in the city jail deserve no better treatment than any other tramps, even though they call themselves "Industrial Workers." If they will not work they need not eat, and if they prefer to go hungry they should enjoy the glorious opportunity to its fullest extent. Nobody need worry lest any of them suffer serious physical injury from the experience. A hobo isn't built that way at least not when he has the option of eating whenever he gets ready.

THE "I WON'T WORKS"

To the Editor of The Gazette
 As a taxpayer I want to protest against our city authorities interfering with I. W. W. members on their way to Denver. The Gazette should join in a "honor" movement as it has fought the recent bill before the legislature against free speech through newspapers and the local editors contempt comment. These I. W. W. men are the very fact of having crossed the city with the intention of going to jail for a principle of free speech ought to cause a different sort of comment from our papers than the stuff you are giving us. Can't you see that you may influence some but that to many of us are better informed and know that they are men with even better backbone than some daily papers are showing?

*SILENT IMPROVEMENTS

To the Editor of The Gazette
 Colorado Springs is to be congratulated upon the marvelous improvement of its streets in the last few years. As a result of the asphaltizing of our streets the traffic is more comfortable and there is less dust. It is a good thing that the city has taken this step. I hope it will continue to improve its streets and make them more comfortable for all.

SPEAKING OF OTHER TONGUES.

To the Editor of The Gazette
 As there has been quite a little comment about the speaking in tongues in the religious circles here, I have a few remarks to make. I have seen a number of people who claim to speak in tongues and I have heard them do so. I think it is a very strange thing and I do not believe in it. I think it is a waste of time and I do not believe in it.

and those assembled with him were baptized with the Holy Ghost. The Jews with Peter being aware of the fact because they heard them speak with tongues and make music. In Acts chapter 19, Paul laid hands on the Ephesian brethren the Holy Ghost came on them and they spoke in tongues and prophesied. Many people say I don't see the use of it. Paul says (1 Cor. xiv. 2) "He that speaketh in a tongue speaketh not unto men but unto God; for no man understandeth him howbeit in the spirit he speaketh mysteries." Also "He that speaketh in a tongue edifieth himself." Then also "Tongues are for a sign not to them that believe, but to them that believe not." Further, "Forbid not to speak with tongues." Of himself he says "I thank God I speak with tongues more than to all."

See the great apostle inspired by the Holy Ghost giving this instruction and yet there are preachers today who do not believe in this sign. The coming of Jesus is very near and the spirit is getting a people ready to meet him. So many are being baptized with the Holy Ghost that they may be ready, and when they receive this heavenly guest they invariably talk in tongues as the spirit gives utterance.

AGAINST DOUBLE TAXES.

From the Pueblo Star-Journal.
 The first formal protest against the signing of an income tax bill for Colorado has been lodged with Governor Ammons by the Denver Chamber of Commerce. Other organizations may take similar action, not because the idea of an income tax is objectionable, but on the grounds that legislation for such a measure is unnecessary. The first objection of the Denver chamber of commerce is that Colorado's income tax would be double taxation owing to the certainty that congress will pass an income tax which will cover practically the same ground as that in the Colorado law.
 Colorado probably has a legal right to pass an income tax but so far is the only state that proposes to impose one in addition to that which will be collected by the federal government. If Colorado should be the only state to have a special income tax law other states would have a big advantage in securing wealthy persons for residents as few people would care to pay a state and a national tax on the same income.

TRYING TO ELEVATE JOURNALISM.

From the Memphis News-Scimitar
 It speaks none too well for the newspapers of Denver to see a regular and influential organization called the Citizens Protective League actively engaged in an effort to elevate journalism in that city. It is claimed that business conditions in Denver have been seriously injured by various journalists. Blackmail and the fear of blackmail have intimidated capital and crippled prosperous enterprises. For years the newspapers of Denver have printed apparently without restraint grossly immoral news stories. The immorality of the news papers has not been confined to the news columns, it has permeated the advertising columns as well. Repeated instances of fakes and exaggerations are pointed out without regard to any moral or industrial responsibility until the people have organized and are attempting to compel their local papers to conduct themselves as to justify the father of a family in taking a paper home for his wife and children to read.

In almost every city there have been complaints against the manner in which newspapers have been conducted but in no city which we have any information have the leading citizens banded themselves together in any effort to correct a manifest evil. These people are not the political pretensions or the sensationalists who live upon the excitement caused by efforts to reform someone else. The organization is represented by the leading business and professional men of the city and by the good women as well, and they announced purpose is to elevate the tone and moral standards of the newspapers of Colorado.

Public opinion is usually strong enough to compel newspapers to observe the amenities but it seems that in the Colorado city more drastic methods must be invoked.

On Hurting Oneself

By RUTH CAMERON.

A young traveling man, whose firm had broken faith with him on a promise to raise his salary, was telling how he evened things up by padding his expense account.

When someone criticised the ethics of this he answered at once that he would never do it if he felt he were being fairly treated. But he considered he was only taking what rightfully belonged to him, his employers had not treated him honorably in breaking faith with him, and therefore he felt quite justified in not treating them honorably.

I think he made a mistake as old as life itself.
 Two wrongs do not make a right.
 Dishonesty never justifies dishonesty.
 Meanness never justifies meanness.
 Selfishness never justifies selfishness.

And so on down the whole line.
 The firm which broke faith with this young man was doing him a wrong. But not half so great as the wrong he did himself. What he did affected the conditions of his outward life, what he did affected his character—himself.

No one can really hurt you except yourself.
 There is a certain verse in the Bible which almost inspires in me the wish that I might be a punster for a day in order that I might preach upon it. It is this:

There is nothing from without a man that entering into him can defile him, but the things which come out of him, those are they that defile the man.

Doesn't that mean that the slights you receive, the dishonesty that is displayed towards you, the meanness and sorrow—all these are really outside of you and cannot do you any lasting hurt? It is only the unkindnesses which you show to others, the dishonesty in your own heart, the meanness to which you stoop, "the things that come out of you" that can really hurt you.

In other words, no one can really hurt you but yourself.

Somehow that is a very big thought to me. I am the master of my soul.

I cannot prevent other people from treating me dishonestly, but I can keep my own hands clean as a white flame. I cannot prevent other people from being rude and mean and deceitful and unkind to me, but within my own heart where I may choose, I can keep a fair garden in which the flowers of kindness and courtesy and honor grow unchecked by weeds of any kind.

Ponderous Personages

JAMES BUCHANAN
 By GEORGE FITCH,
 Author of "At Good Old Swash"

This is the birthday of James Buchanan, fifteenth president of the United States in order of accession, and 27th in quality of results.

Buchanan was born in 1791 in Pennsylvania and remained a Pennsylvanian all his life. At the age of 18 he was a college graduate and at 21 was supporting the government in the war of 1812. He went into politics with great success and became congressman, senator, minister to Russia, secretary of state and minister to England in succession. It finally got to be the custom of every new president to save the choicest office for Buchanan and in 1856 having had everything else, he was elected president.

President Buchanan began his administration with great experience and a deep and tender reverence for the constitution. He loved the constitution as no one has loved it before or since. He was at all times willing to give his entire administration upholding it with the greatest humility. Most of his cabinet was composed of southern men who were then in the process of seceding from the Union and in 1861 when it became evident that unless something was done the nation would part in the middle with a dagger tip bang the north headed with President Buchanan to travel it.

This was Buchanan's opportunity to defend the constitution and he did so like a man. After a careful study he announced that an effort to save the Union would require the constitution and a possible but his failure. He therefore dispensed the precious document to his bosom and retired to a safe corner of the White House while the south armed itself with federal guns and ships and forts and succeeded in a hasty and swift manner.

When Buchanan retired he left the constitution perfectly intact but left a country split so badly that it took a million hits to repair it. He died in 1868 and great respect and general respect.

THE HASKIN LETTER

THE MODERN WOMAN
 XXXII. WOMEN IN ORGANIZATION.

By FRÉDÉRIC J. HASKIN.

The Nineteenth century marked the beginning of the movement for organization among women. In years before women as individuals had occasionally held advanced ideas of education, social reform or philanthropy, but until their strength was unified in organization, their efforts did not have any important influence.

It is claimed that the first organization of women was the Female Society of Philadelphia still in existence, which was organized in 1802. Its object was to give secret aid to women who had been brought up in luxury and who in their old age found themselves in poverty. The society had a number of unique provisions in its constitution. One of them was that the office of treasurer must always be filled by an unmarried woman because the laws of Pennsylvania at the beginning of the last century did not give a married woman any right to hold money in her own name. The little organization never numbered more than 27 members in its strongest days and during the last quarter of a century has been reduced to less than a dozen. Several of the members are of extreme age and most of them are of Quaker faith, although the society was not in any way denominational.

The reports of its first century indicated that the society had dispensed considerably over a hundred thousand dollars in its quiet philanthropy. Most of this money was paid by dues and contributions of members, although the organization used to do needle work at the meetings. This was sold and the proceeds added to the treasury. In comparison with the record of more modern organizations this female society seems very narrow in its scope, but its members fondly repeat the fact that they have had any disturbance that brought it into public notice and the benefit of its charity is indisputable.

Early Organization.

The early organizations of women were usually religious in their scope. The United Female Bible society was founded in Ohio in 1819 and its first membership included nine women. One of its presidents, Mrs. Eliza Pettit, held her office from 1840 until 1881, a period of 41 years, which surely is a record in office holding for any organization. For nearly a hundred years it held a record for its meetings upon the first Monday in each month. At the seventy-fifth anniversary to which were invited all the daughters and grand-daughters of the original founders it was announced that the organization had sent in over $75,000 to the American Bible society in New York.

Next to the woman suffrage organizations the first of which was organized in 1848 the most important of the earlier women's organizations was the Woman's Christian Temperance union which had its origin in Cleveland in 1874. This organization now extends throughout the entire country having branches in every state and Hawaii. It has about 15,000 local organizations and a membership of approximately a million. Some of the local unions have become broadly progressive and have entered into many of the activities of the more modern women's clubs. Others adhere closely to the direct objects of the organization which are to abolish the liquor traffic and to elevate the home. The Woman's Christian Temperance union has been most influential in securing laws providing for the study of scientific temperance in the public schools, for prohibiting the sale of tobacco to minors and also in forwarding efforts for the protection of wayward girls and the lessening of the social evil.

The General Federation.

"The broadest of all of the women's organizations is the great General Federation of Women's Clubs, organized in 1890 as an outgrowth of the work of the New York Societies and extending now to every state in the Union as well as to a number of foreign countries. The General Federation is made up of the state federations of the individual clubs which are in turn organized and thus hold individual membership in the state federation. It made up the different women's clubs of the state and there is no limit as to objects or scope of work. The efforts of the General Federation are broadly constructive and include every movement for reform, social betterment, educational progress which has been brought forward. The motto "Unity in Diversity" expresses the spirit of the organization. While the clubs unite for mutual aid they yield each member absolute liberty of thought and action. At one of the first conventions it was decided that while clubs of every kind were to be welcomed the federation must preserve harmony by prohibiting the discussion of subjects likely to promote discord at the convention meetings. Among the taboo subjects were woman's suffrage and anti-slavery. Within the past five years however the great increase in suffrage sentiment has become so strong that at the Federation Biennial convention held last summer in San Francisco, an effort was made to include suffrage as one of the objects of the federation. This motion was lost, but the feeling in its favor was so strongly evidenced that the presentation of suffrage addresses from a federation platform is now rather encouraged than otherwise.

The federation does many things. It supports at exhibits traveling libraries, works for better laws for the protection of women and children, for larger educational advantages for the schools of the nation, the abolishment of the white slave traffic, improved health conditions and numerous other reforms. It also maintains an English scholarship for women similar to that provided by Cecil Rhodes for men. The present holder of this scholarship is devoting herself to research work upon the final economic result of woman's entrance into the industrial world. It is expected that the results of this research, when published, will be of great economic value.

International Council.

The International Council of Women is even a greater organization than the General Federation of Women's Clubs because it is composed entirely of organizations the federation being one member. It includes the suffrage associations, the Woman's Christian Temperance union, the National Council of Jewish Women, the National Association of Colored Women, the American Federation of Nurses and a number of others of the American nation besides many similar organizations representing 37 other countries. Altogether its membership represents nearly 15,000,000 women. The council is especially interested in securing equal work for men and women, uniform divorce laws and better care of delinquent defective and dependent children.

A number of women's patriotic organizations have been effected during the past quarter of a century. They have had a great influence in incultating patriotism in the minds of most Americans. To their influence is to be accredited the great number of patriotic novels based upon incidents in American history which proves that it is not necessary to go to the old world for records of deeds of chivalry, bravery and romance, as they have been plentiful throughout American history. While some objections are raised to their efforts to substantiate ancient lineages full credit must be given them for the good they have wrought.

The largest and most important of these organizations is that of the Daughters of the American Revolution which was organized in the city of Washington on October 11, 1890. Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, then mistress of the White House, was one of its founders. This society has erected Continental Hall in Washington which is considered one of the handsomest buildings of the national capital and the most magnificent ever erected in the world by woman. In Continental Hall are collected many of the most valuable historical relics of the nation. The organization has undertaken movements for the promotion of patriotism. The Daughters of the American Revolution now number almost 100,000 and include 123 chapters distributed among 45 states, territories and the District of Columbia. It is (Continued on Page Nine.)

WHAT THE CHURCH FOLK ARE THINKING ABOUT AND DOING

Sunday School Lesson and Young People's Topics

WHEN GUILTY

CONQUERED GOODNESS
The International Sunday School Lesson for April 27 is, "Joseph Sold into Egypt." Gen. 37.

BY WILLIAM T. ELLIS.

For eight weeks the Sunday schools of the world will be studying the story of Joseph, the Old Testament tale which is so dramatic that it is now running in New York city's largest theater as a play. "Joseph and His Brothers" is a play, and the story of Joseph is a favorite, and poet and philosopher find life's deepest lessons in it.

The experiences of Joseph are full of adventure and romance, and for the first time in the Genesis narrative the events recorded concerning a Bible character are also related in secular history. Joseph is a connecting link between the story of the Bible and the story of the world. His biography is probably the greatest of the Old Testament stories. Every chapter in it is fraught with significance for today.

Some Family Faults.

The eleventh son of his father, Joseph was the first child of the beloved Rachel. The children born of Leah and the concubines had no such place in Jacob's heart as Joseph, the child of his love. He showed his preference openly, and made it clear to all the world by adorning the lad with a coat of many colors, a mark of honor. The first fault we charge against Jacob in this story is this display of favoritism. A parent offends against his office as parent when he loves one child above another. All children may not be alike but the parent's duty is equal toward all.

As fruit follows flower, and as dew follows seed, so jealousy followed favoritism in the family of Jacob. The 19 older brothers were envious of this son who was the recipient of such special attentions from their father. It is true that Joseph had been a bit of a prig, and his tale-bearing looks were not lovable, but it was probably only the guilelessness that characterized him through these early chapters of the biography. Certainly the son of Rachel was not of the same timber and temperament as his rough and ready, field-trained older brothers, with their queer notions of justice and support.

A Gentle Lad in a Rough Crowd.

There are more tragedies on the playground and in the school than ever find their way into literature. No artist has yet written an adequate portrayal of the torments and terrors of the gentle-souled youth of the grain who is lost in a rough, uncomprehending and unsympathetic companions. To be called a "mollycoddle" or a "sissy" is the least of the soul burden which such a one bears.

These epithets are but the crowd's way of saying, "You are different from us"—and to be different from them is the sum of all offending in the eyes of most folk. Joseph suffered more than we know at the hands of his brethren, long before he began to tell the dreams. They could not see any elements of greatness in his more sensitive nature; or in his sweet and simple candor. We are reminded that many men today are boasting that they knew as boys certain distinguished persons whom in childhood they used to scoff. This tendency of the crowd is to pull others to its level. In a recent Lippincott's Magazine, Marguerite O. R. Wilkinson had a striking poem full of this practical philosophy.

He set his hand to the plow one day, While yet his years were few, Resolved to mark a distant field With furrows firm and true. His arms were strong for the toil of life.

His heart was all a-fire, Till a neighbor laughed and turned him home. Rebuking his desire, "You are too young, you are too poor, you are too weak," said he. "Best leave such tasks to the rich and great, and strive to be like me!"

Then rose Love brought grand largesse to his very cottage door, A maid of mystery and of charm, And never gave before. And the lad held out dumb hands of hope.

And then he sought release, Till the neighbor passed with tongue in cheek. And then he sought release, "You are too dull," the neighbor said, "to shine by such as she." And you a girl of common clay to wed, and be like me!"

The Candid Dreamer.

Guilelessness is a quality of the virtuous, but it is not always a virtue. It is not necessary to tell all that one knows, or thinks; Joseph's mistake was not in having the dreams—his misfortune was in telling them to his uncomprehending and ill-thinking brothers. A simple, ingenious and generous soul, itself, he was eager to share with others everything that interested him. The lesson of prudence and subtlety would have to be learned in the hard school of life.

He dreams that he ill-advisedly told Joseph had seen 11 sheaves of wheat bowing down to him. Later he saw the sun, moon and 11 stars doing homage. Of course the interpretation lay on the surface, that he should be exalted above his family and bear rule over them. It is notable that the dream was respected by all who heard it, little as they liked it, and little as they honored the dreamer therefor. All signs of superior power are resented by inferior people. Inevitable things can be more tolerant of those who do wrong than of those who do virtuously. There is something in human nature that persecutes "Aristides the Just."

Of course the 11 sons of Jacob could not be expected to perceive that in cherishing the grievance against their brother they were but hurting their own souls. Whoever exercises hospitality toward low and vulgar thoughts is injuring first and most his own spirit. Hate's arrows all fly backward.

A Trap for the Unbarned.

The fact is not to be overlooked that it is the dreamers who are sent to carry messages to Garcia. Jacob had a hard errand of 70 or 80 miles, through Hebron up to Shechem. He chose for it not a servant or a sturdy runner, but a dreamer, and a dreamer of the kind which is the true hero stuff. It is not your big bully who wins in life, but the fine-spirited, delicate, imaginative dreamer who dares to follow his gleam to the uttermost. Joseph knew well the enemies that lurked on the way of the long journey up to Shechem. He felt more than his tougher-muscled brothers, the burden of the food he carried. He suffered most in the cold and lonely nights when he wrapped his mantle around him and lay down to sleep. Nevertheless, he said, "Here am I," when Jacob called him and then went and found his brothers, even though they had gone from Shechem.

What a person says or does on impulse reveals his character. The cry of "Fire" in a crowd reveals the character of all who hear it by their first instinctive action. On impulse one of the brothers of Joseph cried, "Here comes that dreamer; let's slay him." They were murderers at heart. Their inhuman nature is shown more clearly here than in any of the other episodes of the past. Even Reuben, although he himself had been guilty of an unnatural offense, revolted from the fratricidal throng.

A compromise was effected, and Joseph was thrown into a pit, a bottle-shaped cistern, which held him prisoner like a rat in a jug, while his brothers proceeded calmly to eat the food which he had brought them.

From Slavery to Sceptre.

A caravan of desert men, Ishmaelites and Midianites, from down the Red sea way, inveterate traders, happened along with a load of Egyptian goods.

They were bound for Egypt, which is to this day a great mart of the east. Judah, whose name suggests the like-minded Judas, proposed that they sell the brother, thus serving the double purpose of getting rid of him and making profit. Then as now, the Arab was a slave trader, and the Midianites were quite willing to buy this fair youth for a bit of trade on the side, and they struck a bargain with his brothers for 20 pieces of silver. The whole transaction recalls the Judas episode and the 30 pieces of silver when a greater than Joseph was betrayed.

To end the episode, these precious brothers took Joseph's fine coat and dipped it in the blood of a kid, concocting a story of his having been slain by a wild beast. Perhaps as they put the kid to this use of deceit, they recalled Jacob's own deception of his father by the same agency. The heartless crew thought that once Jacob's suspicions were set at rest the incident would be closed.

Little did they imagine—for they were not an imaginative sort—that they were sending on his way to a sceptre the brother whom they had enslaved. No man can thwart God's purposes for another, or permanently injure another's character. Only Joseph could lead to the success of the man worthy of success, and destined for success by Jehovah.

THE BOOK THAT MAKES NATIONS

These Comments Upon the Uniform Prayer Meeting Topic of the Young People's Societies, Christian Endeavor, Etc., for April 27, "Mission Work at Home and Abroad." L. V. Bible Work. Acts 17:1-12.

(By William T. Ellis.)
The tourist who visits Bethlehem will be shown the cave, under the same roof as the grotto in which the Savior was born, where Jerome translated the Bible into the Vulgate. He wanted to get as close as possible to the life in rendering the book. The gospel takes its rise in the birth of Christ. There is significance in this incident of the ancient saint and scholar, who made the translation of the Bible into Latin which endures to this day, getting near to the manner for his labors. The best Bible work is that which keeps closest to Christ.

Approximately 500 languages and dialects have had the Bible translated into their speech. There is no important nation on earth today which may not read the word of God in its native tongue. Many people have been given the Bible as their first literature, they had no written speech until the Bible translators, with infinite pains, reduced their tongue to paper. The greatest literary achievement in human annals has been the giving of the Bible to the whole mankind, in the speech to which each nation was born. This has also been the greatest single work of missions.

The judgment of the heads of the great English speaking nations upon the Bible and its hero are of contemporaneous interest. Not long since somebody inquired of King George's private secretary concerning the king's reading habits, and Lord Knollys replied as follows:
"I have had the honor of submitting your letter to the king, and am directed to inform you in reply that it is quite true that he promised Queen Alexandra his long ago as 1881 that he would read a chapter of the Bible daily, and that he has ever since adhered to his promise."

President Wilson, as all the world knows, is a Presbyterian elder, and the son of a Presbyterian minister. In a little book by him, "The Free Life," occurs this passage:
"Our true wisdom is in our ideals. Practical judgments shift from age to age, but principles abide; and more stable even than principles are the motives which simplify and ennoble life. That, I suppose, is why the image of Christ has grown, not less, but more distinct in the consciousness of the race since the tragic day in which he died upon the cross. It is the only permanent part of history, the only being who wears of no age because he was of all, the only complete and unalterable epitome of what man is and what man would be—a creature of two worlds."

Whenever I make any decision I ask myself what the Bible would teach me to do in that particular case. It is to me a fountain from which I draw light and strength, and in hours of sorrow and depression I seek consolation there. —Emperor William of Germany.

The man bearing the book to a non-Christian land is more potent than the man leading an army or a fleet of warships. For the Bible subdues characters, where as the military or naval force merely overcomes territory and outward actions. More revolutions have been wrought by the Bible than by gunpowder.

Martin Luther used to teach his children to read the Bible in the following way: First read through one book carefully, then study chapter by chapter, and then verse by verse; and lastly word by word, for he said: "It is like a person shaking a fruit tree. First shaking the tree and gathering up the fruit which falls to the ground, and then shaking each branch, and afterwards each twig of the branch, and last of all, looking carefully under each leaf to see that no fruit remains. In this way, and in no other, shall we also find the hidden treasures that are in the Bible."

The charge has sometimes been made against Christians that they use the Bible as an idol. They set it up as a fetish, instead of handling aright the word of truth. The wise words of Miles Gideale in the preface to his English Bible in 1535 are still applicable.
"It shall greatly help thee to understand scripture, if thou mark not only what is spoken or written, but of whom and unto whom, with what words, or at what time, where, to what intent, with what circumstances, considering what goeth before and what followeth."

The existence of the Bible as a book for the people is the greatest benefit which the human race has ever experienced. Every attempt to belittle it is a crime against humanity. —Immanuel Kant.

The Bible has been the Magna Charta of the poor and of the oppressed; the Bible is the most democratic book in the world. By the study of what other book could children be so much humanized? I have been seriously perplexed to know by what means the religious feeling in mankind, which is the essential basis of conduct, is to be kept up without the use of the Bible. —Thomas Huxley.

The period of the reformation was a judgment day for Europe, when all the nations were presented with an open Bible and an emancipation of the mind and intellect which an open Bible involves. —Thomas Carlyle.

The Bible thoroughly understood is a literature of itself—the rarest and richest in all departments of thought or imagination. —Richard H. Froude.

Anybody who is interested in helping people to understand the Bible is a patriot. —Justice David Brewer.

If we abide by the principles taught in the Bible country will go on prospering and to prosper, but if we and our posterity neglect its instructions and authority, no man can tell how sudden a catastrophe may overwhelm us and bury all our glory in profound obscurity. —Daniel Webster.

It is supremacy, not precedence, that we ask for the Bible. It is contrast, as well as resemblance, that we must feel compelled to insist on. The Bible is stamped with "peculiarly of origin" and an immeasurable distance separates it from all competitors. —William E. Gladstone.

The most original book in the world is the Bible. Shakespeare, the first literary genius of the world, the highest in whom the moral is not the dominating element leans on the Bible; his poetry presupposes it. —R. W. Emerson.

SEVEN SENTENCE SERMONS

Though the past is irrevocable, it is not irreparable. —F. B. Meyer.

If religion has any reality, it is the most important thing with which human society can concern itself. —Christian Register.

Who steadfastly pursues his goal Despite what winds prevail, Nor loses courage from his soul Can never wholly fail. —Susie M. Reet.

Luxury and dissipation, soft and gentle as their approaches are, and silently as they throw their silken charms about the heart, ensnare it more than the most active and turbulent vices. —Hannah More.

The saddest sight in all the world is not a group of the dead, grievous as that might be, but it is a grave of the living—humanity scupperheaded while yet alive. —Francis E. Willard.

It is comely fashion to be glad, Joy is the grace we say to God. —Jean Ingelow.

Whatever things are true, whatsoever things are honorable, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are of good report, if there be any virtue, or if there be any praise, think on these things. —Paul.

America Responds to China's Strange Call for Prayer

The Unprecedented Action of the Chinese Government Stirs American Churches—Rare Prestige for Missions—Presence of Chinese Officials in Native Churches Gives "Face" to Christianity—There Is Politics in It, Too.

(By the Religious Rambler.)

Undesigned and unexpected, the call of the Chinese government a week ago for the prayers of the Christians of the Empire, has set church circles throughout the world abuzz with interest. This is something new on the world's horizon. There is no precedent for China's action. This is the first time that a non-Christian nation has officially recognized the Christian church in any such fashion. One can scarcely imagine the elation among the Chinese Christians and the missionaries. For the recognition comes not as a condescending favor, but as an earnest entreaty for the help of the prayers of Christians in meeting the government's new problems.

Within 24 hours after the newspapers had printed the extraordinary intelligence from China, the official religious bodies in America, which represent all of the churches, had taken action. The chairman of the committee of Reference and Council of the Allied Boards of North America, in cooperation with the Federal Council of Churches, issued a call to the churches of the land to share with the Chinese Christians in observing Sunday, April 27, as a day of prayer for China in her special emergency. The lay leaders of the missionary enterprise were in session at Garden City at the time, and they tried to get into touch with the president to ask him to appoint Sunday, the twenty-seventh, as a day of prayer for American churches. Bishop Bashford, of the Methodist church, cabled from China asking that his denomination take this action. The occasion was a wonderful synchronizing of the thought of Christian leaders. The discerning men of Christendom have perceived the tremendous significance of the action of the Chinese government.

What a Dozen Years Have Brought. When one recalls that a dozen years ago the Peking government was doing its best to exterminate Christianity and the Christians were dying by the thousand, it becomes apparent that this present action of the Peking government, in calling upon the native Christians to pray for it, is one of the most dramatic revolutions of the wheel of events known within the memory of living men.

Proud and self-sufficient, devoted to ancient ways and unwilling to countenance calling all outsiders "foreign devils," the Chinese have made an almost incredible " volte face " in calling upon the lately-despised Christians to pray for the government, for its new officers, for its recognition by the powers and for its stable establishment.

What It Means to China.

The proclamation went to almost unbelievable lengths in decreeing that government officials all over the empire should attend the prayer services of the native Christians on April 27. This means that the humble chapels and churches of the little bands of Christians, scattered throughout the 35 provinces and three dependencies, will for the first time see the dignitaries within their walls. Except in a few of the larger cities, there are no valentines Chinese churches. The Christians have been the common folk, often only the coolie class. Some of their meeting places are really too small to hold all the officials who must attend. The situation appeals to one's imagination.

China is the land of the "face." The fact of this governmental proclamation and the presence of these officials in the Christian meeting places will do more to establish the "face" of Christianity than any action that could possibly be taken by all the missionaries and foreign boards combined. It means more to Christianity in China than the announcement of a $1,000,000 gift.

This Chinese regard for "face," or outward seemingness and recognition is what lent importance to President Wilson's appointment of John R. Mott as minister to China. Mr. Mott's appointment, even though he did not accept, has given "face" to missions both in China and in this country. It accredited the Christian enterprise and proved its standing and good repute.

The Effect Upon America.

Not for a long time has anything happened in the history of the churches that has centered the interest of all branches of Christendom upon one theme as has this day of prayer for China. The newspapers have carried the tidings everywhere. In tens of thousands of congregations, the action of the Chinese government will be the subject of discussion and sermons; the Christians will be set to considering China, and to praying for her welfare. Missionary sermons by the thousand will be preached as a result of this call.

Various denominations, notably the Northern Presbyterians are conducting special China campaigns at the present time for the raising of large sums to promote special mission work in China. This unexpected development will do more to accelerate the China campaigns than any scheme that could be devised by the campaigners.

The fact that the church people have been set to talking about China and to inquiring the meaning of this governmental call for prayer is an immeasurable contribution to the cause of China missions. The goal of most missionary education in religious circles is to set people to thinking and talking about a subject. The newspaper dispatches have done more in a week for this end than the boards could do in years.

The Reason for the Call.

The new administration of China, as many signs have shown, is profoundly influenced by the young men educated in mission schools and in America. Yuan Shih Kai's secretary, for instance, is J. Wellington Koo, a brilliant Columbia university man who has been heard at mission gatherings in this country. It was the missionary influence that kept the Nanking assembly from making bloody reprisals upon the Manchukuo troops.

One notable evidence of the change in the Chinese temper is the fact that the Temple of Heaven, where the emperor used to go once a year to worship heaven, and which is one of the most beautiful and impressive temples in all the earth, has of late been opened for Christian preaching. The

XXXI—WOMEN IN ORGANIZATION

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

membership is based upon lineal descent from revolutionary soldiers and sailors.

Colonial Dames First Society.

The Colonial Dames of America claims to be the first society of women incorporated for patriotic purposes in this country. It was organized in New York on May 29, 1890, and incorporated the year following. Its membership is based upon descent from ancestors having part in the founding of the nation during its colonial period. The National Society of Colonial Dames of America and the Colonial Dames of the State of New York are separate organizations, though similar in their scope and object. The Colonial Dames of the State of New York have a library of nearly 1,800 genealogical and historical volumes. They maintain the Van Cortlandt museum in Van Cortlandt park and support scholarships in the Teachers' college and University of Rochester. The Dames of the Revolution, the Society of Colonial Daughters, and the United Daughters of 1812 are among the other most prominent women's patriotic organizations.

The Women's Relief corps represents the women of the families of the "Boys in Blue" who saved the Union in 1861-5. The United Daughters of the Confederacy is composed of southern women. It includes the wives, widows, mothers, daughters, sisters, and lineal female descendants of the men who served upon the Confederate side in the war for the Union. They also provide for the wants of needy Confederate veterans and their families, and support the Confederate museum located at Richmond, Va., in which are being collected the most valuable historical relics connected with the history of the south.

The Needlework Guild of America is one of the most beneficent women's organizations in existence. Its work is done so quietly and unostentatiously that thousands of people never have heard of it, and yet in every large city there is to be found a branch which distributes thousands of new garments to the needy poor. Membership is secured by the contribution of at least two new garments each year, which may be as costly or as inexpensive as the means of the donor dictate. These garments are distributed once a year among the free wards of the hospitals, the orphanages, the associated charities and other organizations whose work brings them in touch with the needy. Although of comparatively recent origin, the Needlework Guild numbers many thousands and all of its contributions go directly to supply the wants of the poor and afflicted. Tomorrow—THE MODERN WOMAN. XXXIII—Women and Religion.

CHICAGO MARKET

CHICAGO, April 25.—Export wheat today gave wheat a net uplift of 1/4¢ to 1/2¢. Corn at the close was unchanged to 1/4¢ off, oats suffered a net decline of 1/4¢ to 1/2¢ and provisions closed 1/4¢ to 1/2¢ lower.

Renewal of discussion concerning large needs for wheat in Europe and estimates that a great part of it must come from America, was accompanied with specific statements that more than a million and a half bushels had been worked in the last few days for export from New York.

Fears that some harm to growing wheat had come from frosts last night in Nebraska, Kansas and Western Iowa and Missouri, added to the bullish sentiment as did the unsettled European political situation brought about by the secular incident. The market showed strength nearly all day.

Temporary quotations on wheat, July, showed a bit of weakness just at the close, but may hold steady. The Argentine situation was a factor in the day's influence. A cut of three million bushels in the Argentine view was noted.

Primary receipts of wheat today were 526,000 bushels against 288,000 bushels last year. Seaboard clearances of wheat and flour equalled 67,000 bushels.

Declined at Kansas City and Omaha depressed corn here. Expectation of larger offerings also had a weakening tendency. Oats came off on a large increase in receipts.

Selling pressure wiped out the small advance scored by provisions at the start and the entire list closed weak. Strength in cash products gave the future market about the only show of vitality in the last few days.

NEW YORK MARKET

NEW YORK, April 25.—Pronounced weakness developed today among a number of less active stocks. A score of new low records for the year were made, and in some cases prices approached the low points touched during the panic of 1907. The principal losses were sustained by the less stable industrials and by shares of railroads, the maintenance of whose dividend rates has become a matter of doubt. Rumley issues were conspicuously weak. The preferred stock closed yesterday at 65, opened 11 points lower today, and subsequently sold under 62. The common broke to 23. International Harvester, Illinois Central, North-western, Southern Railway, preferred, Chesapeake and Ohio and American Tobacco were others of the long list which touched new low figures for 1913.

The market leaders held up well during the first part of the day, in spite of the frequent declines of 2 to 5 points among the less conspicuous shares. Movements of such stocks as Reading, Union Pacific, Steel and Aluminum were irregular and comparatively narrow, until late in the session when they gave way with the rest of the list, losing a point or so.

Sentiment was bearish and talk of dividend reductions and other unfavorable developments was common enough, but there was little in the way of concrete new influences to which the course of the market could be ascribed. The entire lack of a genuine demand for either stocks or bonds is the depressing feature of the situation, even the recent lowering of the bond prices having failed to give rise to investment buying to appreciable extent.

The first of the March reports of western roads appeared today and presented a marked contrast to the unfavorable statement of eastern lines which lost heavily from the flood. Atchafalaya reported a net increase of $24,000 and Southern Pacific of $66,000.

Bonds lost ground again, with acute weakness in some issues. Total sales, par value, $2,125,000. Total sales, par value, $2,125,000.

Heavy Profits in 1912 Reported by Chino Copper Co.

The Chino Copper company, of which C. M. MacNeill of this city is president, made a net profit of $2,176,000 during the year 1912 after all interest charges had been paid, according to the annual report of the company, which was received here yesterday. The company now has 80,000,000 tons of ore in sight, an increase of 35,000,000 tons over the year preceding, of an average grade of 1.8 per cent copper. In 1912 a total of 29,237,866 pounds of copper were produced at an average cost of 7.69 cents and marketed at 15.6439 cents per pound. The report of the president is as follows:

President's Report.

No. 111 Broadway, New York, April 15, 1913.
To the Stockholders of the Chino Copper Company:
Herewith is submitted to you for your consideration the report of the vice president and general manager covering the operations of your company for the fiscal year ended December 31, 1912. There is also submitted the report of Messrs. Sufferin & Son, certified public accountants, which shows in detail the company's financial condition and the revenue resulting from operations for the period under discussion. As usual you will also find attached photographs and maps which show to some degree the extent of the company's operations. Attention is particularly directed to the report made by the vice president and general manager concerning additional ore reserves developed in the last year's work. At the time that the last annual report was rendered the proven tonnage was given as 55,000,000 tons, containing an average of 2.24 per cent copper. The recalculated tonnage at the close of the last fiscal year shows an increase of 35,000,000 tons or a total tonnage of 90,000,000 tons of average grade slightly in excess of 1.8 per cent copper. Construction work has practically ceased and the milling plant, while designed to handle 5,000 tons a day, has developed a capacity of handling 6,000 tons a day and at the present writing is handling this tonnage and will continue to handle at least this amount as a daily average.

During the year the gross production of copper amounted to 29,237,866 pounds which, after smelting deductions, resulted in a marketable product of 27,760,688 pounds. This output of copper was the result with the plant operating at two-thirds its normal average capacity during the year, owing to noncompletion of some of the units. The five sections were not entirely completed until April 1, 1913. The average cost of producing this copper, including all expenses of every kind and nature, mining, transportation, milling, smelting and selling was 7.69 cents per pound. The average price received, as shown on the income statement, was 15.6439 cents. The operating profit amounted to $2,212,169.04, miscellaneous income $125,132.21, the total income being $2,337,301.25, deducting interest on bonds and notes $450,987.51, leaves a net income passed to profit and loss account for the year of $2,176,313.74.

If the miscellaneous income were credited to the cost of producing the copper, the cost for the year would be 7.22 cents per pound. During the year the capital stock issued was increased to the extent of 77,420 shares. Seventy thousand shares were sold at $25 per share in accordance with plan outlined to the stockholders in the last annual report. Seven thousand four hundred and twenty shares were issued in the conversion of $18,100 par value of bonds, thus leaving outstanding as of December 31 last $2,314,500 par value of bonds. Since December 31 there has been converted into stock $54,500 par value of bonds, making a total amount of bonds converted at the date of this report $2,260,000, leaving $2,260,000 par value of bonds outstanding. The entire operation is progressing in a most satisfactory manner. The financial result for the year is the best evidence that the methods employed are entirely successful. With the present equipment the company should have no difficulty in obtaining an annual production of the rate of from 60,000,000 to 70,000,000 pounds of copper, and there is every reason to believe that a substantial reduction in the cost per pound of copper produced for the next year and several years to come will be realized. This result is but to be expected in view of the very greatly increased output with practically no additional overhead charges or expense and further by reason of a more extraction following the production of a cleaner ore containing a much smaller amount of oxidized material.

Respectfully submitted,
C. M. MACNEILL,
President.

COURT HOUSE TO BE ARCHITECTURAL MARVEL

As architect for the new $10,000,000 county court house, according to the plan of Guy Lowell the county of El Paso has paid $50,000 for the design for the new $10,000,000 county court house. The new structure is to be a two-story circular building, one within the other. The outer one is modeled after the Colosseum in Rome. It will be 200 feet in diameter and five stories high at a total of 200 feet in height. The inner building will be eight stories high at a total of 245 feet. The three upper stories are to be reserved exclusively for the justices of the supreme and city courts. The building is to cover an area of four city blocks.
